

Michael Coffey, Technical Expert

EnviroTech Services, Inc.

Michael Coffey retired from the Alaska Department of Transportation and Public Facilities (ADOTPF) in 2017 after nearly 37 years with the agency. During his time with the ADOTPF he served in several different leadership roles. In 2007 Mike was appointed by the ADOTPF Commissioner as the Director of Statewide Maintenance and Operations leading a dispersed workforce of nearly 1000 operations professionals. In 2015, then Alaska Governor Bill Walker appointed Mike to lead the Southcoast Region, one of the three geographic regions in the state. As part of the departments senior executive team, Mike provided leadership and guidance to the nearly 3300 ADOTPF employees statewide. During his time with the department, Mike also served as the incident commander and lead the State of Alaska's response to several of the largest natural disasters in the state's history.

After his retirement from the State of Alaska, Mike joined Envirotech Services Inc as a technical expert where he currently serves as a technical resource helping clients/agencies/etc. to improve their operations and works with them to solve problems, offers training opportunities and serves as customer support.

Mike is recognized as an expert in best practices for winter maintenance and has served on numerous national committees. He is a frequent guest speaker at conferences and a contributing author in publications.
